

THE CROWN INQUEST.

People Said to be Ready to Prove the Charges in the Doctor's Papers.

CHICAGO, June 7.—From present indications the Crown inquest is liable to drag along for another week. The names of new and important witnesses are constantly cropping out before the jury, and besides valuable documentary evidence is being added almost daily to the papers whose preparation and preservation cost Dr. Cronin his life. Every man who can throw any additional light on the tragedy is being called in, and the coroner is the cross-fire of the prosecuting attorneys at the numerous conferences in the coroner's office. Dr. Cronin's papers will furnish

THE MOST SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY of the whole inquiry. They cover a wide scope of time, and contain startling records for men whose patriotism and devotion to the Irish cause have heretofore been considered almost above reproach. The doctor's friends claim that every word in the documents can be proved by the verbal testimony of corroborating witnesses who are ready to go to the gallows as they are asked. The Chicago record of Dr. Cronin, the British spy, is treated in a way that is SURE TO MAKE TROUBLE FOR SOMEONE, while the financial transactions of the revolutionary society are set down for the purpose of proving that the doctor's defense actually occurred. It is claimed that John Devoy, Dr. Cronin, John F. Scamion, and others have consented to take the stand for the purpose of making the papers perfectly clear, and they are not likely to Chicago to make their promise good.

THE LATEST BIT OF Gossip about the conspiracy comes from Peoria, where it is said Dan Coughlin spent several days last March while looking for the dynamite which tried to blow up the Shufeldt distillery. Coughlin, it is claimed, frequently said bitter things to the Peoria Irishmen, and that he made use of language that now seems criminal in conversation with Mr. Spellman, the distiller. Mr. Spellman has been arrested by the coroner, and is held in the Peoria jail. Mr. Warner, who, it is claimed, overheard Coughlin's bombast, both gentlemen will probably take the stand in a day or two.

A FAILURE PREDICTED.

The International Corn Market at Vienna will not be a Success.

VIENNA, June 7.—The Austrian minister of commerce is a very important personage with the power of a mighty empire behind him, but he is likely to discover, within a few days, that even a crown minister, when he attempts to make water run uphill, may sometimes fail. The international corn market will be held here next week by his express order, promulgated two weeks ago. It has been customary for many years to hold the international corn market in Vienna, and heretofore the salesmen commingled at these annual gatherings of the corn factors of Europe have been enormous. Of recent years, however, there has been a marked falling off of the trade, owing to the withdrawal of the Jewish corn factors, who gave Vienna a wide birth because of the prevalence of the anti-Semitic movement here. Last year the transaction was so small that the number of merchants who attended very small. The local corn exchange had come to realize that

VIENNA HAD LOST ITS PRESTIGE as an international market and were considering the advisability of abandoning the attempt to hold the usual market here, when the minister of commerce interfered and wrote to the president of the exchange ordering that the international market be held as usual. The order will be obeyed, but no one expects that the order will amount to anything. The Jewish merchants are determined to stay away, and as a very large share of the corn business of Europe is in their hands this alone would doom the market to a failure. But the absence of the element will undoubtedly result in other corn merchants keeping away, and the result must be a dismal failure, in which the minister of commerce is sure to cut a sorry figure.

On the list of all the railways and waterways government has decided to assume the management of the Lemberg-Czernowitz railway and connections. This is in pursuance of a policy to take under the management of the empire, and private corporations now operating their own roads have in many cases been operating their own roads in readiness to turn their lines over to the government.

The business done was concentrated principally in a half dozen stocks, such as American Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Northern Pacific. The market was unchanged and a few slightly lower. Some of the Entertaining Contents of To-morrow's Twelve-Page Star.

To-morrow's Star will be a credit to itself and to Washington. No expense nor pains have been spared to make it fully up to the standard which the Star has made for itself. It will be twelve pages actual on Saturday, and every one of these pages will contain choice reading matter. No one will be disappointed in to-morrow's issue, and it will furnish reading matter of the very best character for Sunday. As the publisher of a well-known magazine remarked recently: "The Saturday night's Star is a magazine in itself, and a good one." The news from all parts of the world will be published. Local happenings will be related in detail, and besides a symposium of humorous and poetical articles, personal and historical sketches, there will be a long array of chapters of particular interest and specially prepared for this issue. THE WRECKED CANAL.

Effects of the Suspension of Traffic on the Business Interests of the City.

STAR REPORTERS' TALKS WITH BUSINESS MEN—NOW ALL KINDS OF BUSINESS ARE INDIRECTLY AFFECTED—RAILROAD FREIGHT RATES VERSUS CANAL TOLLS—SHIPPING BY WATER.

The great damage to the Canal, which has been effectively checked off canal traffic and may result in the total abandonment of the canal, has caused serious apprehension among business men as to the results on the many interests directly or indirectly affected. Star reporters have talked with a number of business men on the subject of the canal, and their views vary.

The destruction of the Cumberland canal is a great blow to Georgetown, said Mr. Geo. L. Short, of the canal. It practically shuts off the supply of coal from the north, and the railroads to charge whatever price they please for a kind of coal that has not yet advanced.

"Do you think the canal will ever be repaired?" "Well, yes; that is my private opinion. I think a syndicate will take hold of it and operate it with good results."

Mr. John W. Shaw, the flour and feed dealer, who has been in the business for thirty years, said: "I hardly think the canal will ever be repaired, although it is possible that it will be repaired. I think the canal will be repaired, but it will be repaired for a different purpose than it was at first."
